Jesus 99 messages and a bitch ain't one. Some thoughts on what I read over pb's comments. Taking a dump so this will be long.

1. Nirvana is legit. Hated them when I was a pimply faced cub but their unplugged cd is fucking incredible. Grown to appreciate their music. In bloom is a personal favorite.

2. This double standard/reverse racism that niggers get away with absolutely infuriates me. God forbid some stands up for the victims in those stories and rallies for justice against the black perps. Then u would see Jesse Jackson and al sharpton surface talking about how those negros are a product of their environment and have been shunned by society and wasn't their fault. Fuck u.

3. The canton/ten x club closed? Wow. Get those former members to homebase!!

4. That's no good chs plays stoughton twice. Leave it as just the turkey day game. Has more meaning that way. Whitey had an epic performance one year at that game. Got carried out of the legion thanksgiving morning blacked out drunk.

They're doing this in the Obannon trial. Some former player from Alabama is doing the same thing, complaining that he took cream puff classes. My only question is, are the players making these accusations not accountable?

Feb 2010 ESPN magazine interview with Brain May: Queen decided that it needed a simple, anthemic tune that could connect with the audience. The morning after the show, May woke up with a stomp-stomp-clap beat rolling around in his head. To accompany that big rhythm, he sat down and wrote depressing lyrics that described the futility of man. The lyrics begin with a young man dreaming of a better life, in the second stanza the boy is now a young man battling to reach lofty goals and the song ends with an old mans dreams unfulfilled. The chorus is not a rally call. It is a Czech lullaby which a parent promises a child " we will, we will rock you." Great article by Seth Wickersom tracking down the meaning of the most popular stadium anthem. The song was recorded in an empty church because Queen loved the acoustics.
